

ABSTRACT

The present invention includes a method and device for generic searching across document types. A further aspect of the present invention is indexing and searching XML documents using an HTML interface generated by a declarative transformation. Additional aspects of the present invention are described in the claims, specification and drawings.

108121 189201
1025681 121801